A SMALL ACT, A HUGE IMPACT

On a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.

READER REVIEWS

Room & board U.S.
1 semester
$3,800

2013
20th anniversary
Women’s Scholarship Program
SOS Book Sale raises $1,770

Bolivia
$175 Tuition for 1 month

3 Women helped in Congo in 2013

NI LOOKS FORWARD
This love influenced Ni to pursue an education degree; she wants to teach others about Jesus and His love for mankind. She also looks forward to helping her future pupils become positive citizens in the community. However, without our help, Ni will not be able to complete college. We can help her to achieve her dream.

Read about more scholarship recipients in past newsletters at www.adventistwomensministries.org

MEET OUR SISTERS
Like Oxygen For Ni

“Jesus is the best teacher for me. Without Him I can’t live. I need him like oxygen.” This is what Ni Htwe says of her love for Jesus.

Ni Htwe is from a family of poor farmers in Myaungmya, Myanmar. Because her parents could not afford her education, her elder sister, a Seventh-day Adventist, raised her and provided an Adventist education. In the eleventh grade, Ni accepted Christ. Whenever faced with a difficult task, Ni learned to depend on Jesus, which helped her realize His love and influence on her life.

Like Oxygen For Ni

O n a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.

MEET OUR SISTERS
Like Oxygen For Ni

“Jesus is the best teacher for me. Without Him I can’t live. I need him like oxygen.” This is what Ni Htwe says of her love for Jesus.

Ni Htwe is from a family of poor farmers in Myaungmya, Myanmar. Because her parents could not afford her education, her elder sister, a Seventh-day Adventist, raised her and provided an Adventist education. In the eleventh grade, Ni accepted Christ. Whenever faced with a difficult task, Ni learned to depend on Jesus, which helped her realize His love and influence on her life.

Like Oxygen For Ni

O n a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.

MEET OUR SISTERS
Like Oxygen For Ni

“Jesus is the best teacher for me. Without Him I can’t live. I need him like oxygen.” This is what Ni Htwe says of her love for Jesus.

Ni Htwe is from a family of poor farmers in Myaungmya, Myanmar. Because her parents could not afford her education, her elder sister, a Seventh-day Adventist, raised her and provided an Adventist education. In the eleventh grade, Ni accepted Christ. Whenever faced with a difficult task, Ni learned to depend on Jesus, which helped her realize His love and influence on her life.

Like Oxygen For Ni

O n a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.

MEET OUR SISTERS
Like Oxygen For Ni

“Jesus is the best teacher for me. Without Him I can’t live. I need him like oxygen.” This is what Ni Htwe says of her love for Jesus.

Ni Htwe is from a family of poor farmers in Myaungmya, Myanmar. Because her parents could not afford her education, her elder sister, a Seventh-day Adventist, raised her and provided an Adventist education. In the eleventh grade, Ni accepted Christ. Whenever faced with a difficult task, Ni learned to depend on Jesus, which helped her realize His love and influence on her life.

Like Oxygen For Ni

O n a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.

MEET OUR SISTERS
Like Oxygen For Ni

“Jesus is the best teacher for me. Without Him I can’t live. I need him like oxygen.” This is what Ni Htwe says of her love for Jesus.

Ni Htwe is from a family of poor farmers in Myaungmya, Myanmar. Because her parents could not afford her education, her elder sister, a Seventh-day Adventist, raised her and provided an Adventist education. In the eleventh grade, Ni accepted Christ. Whenever faced with a difficult task, Ni learned to depend on Jesus, which helped her realize His love and influence on her life.

Like Oxygen For Ni

O n a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.

MEET OUR SISTERS
Like Oxygen For Ni

“Jesus is the best teacher for me. Without Him I can’t live. I need him like oxygen.” This is what Ni Htwe says of her love for Jesus.

Ni Htwe is from a family of poor farmers in Myaungmya, Myanmar. Because her parents could not afford her education, her elder sister, a Seventh-day Adventist, raised her and provided an Adventist education. In the eleventh grade, Ni accepted Christ. Whenever faced with a difficult task, Ni learned to depend on Jesus, which helped her realize His love and influence on her life.

Like Oxygen For Ni

O n a recent visit to Cambodia, I saw war’s devastation on that country, and also the heroic efforts of the Cambodian people to rebuild their lives.

A huge problem is poverty and its impact on women. They suffer due to frequent pregnancies, a high maternal mortality rate, and lack of education. For women, the illiteracy rate is over 80%. Domestic violence and economic hardship make women vulnerable to trafficking and exploitative prostitution. As a result, Cambodia is a major center in the regional sex trade.

Missionaries To The Riverbanks
However, there is hope. Young women want better futures. Sayom and Puyei plan to serve the Cambodians who live on the riverbanks. But they need help to complete their education. Just $600 will cover one girl’s tuition for a year at Phnom Penh University.

Listening to their stories, I saw that a small act can have a huge impact on the lives of women like Sayom and Puyei. May our small act, our gift, have a huge impact on the women of Cambodia.

By Raquel Arrais
Associate Director, GC Women’s Ministries

In Cambodia, Sayom and Puyei hope to graduate from university to better serve their church and community.
A Hard-working Leader

Hard work does not scare Luz, who holds three jobs and is enrolled as a full-time theology and history student at Antillean Adventist University in Puerto Rico. School administrators call her an “inspiration” and “example” and say she is a “natural leader”—ideal qualities for a student who dreams of becoming a teacher.

Because her mother sells candy to support the family and earns very little, she cannot help her daughter. Already Luz has worked as a math tutor, librarian, pastoral assistant and Bible worker at her church and the university, where she recruits students and offers Bible studies.

HER UNCLE’S FAITH

An uncle first led her to the Seventh-day Adventist faith. Luz remembers the “warm, family environment” at her uncle’s church. There she found a sense of “calm, happiness and belonging.” Luz wants to be a positive Christian role model, helping young people grow intellectually and spiritually. She believes teachers have a huge influence on students. A high school teacher inspired her to become an “agent of change,” with compassion and respect for others. A scholarship will enable Luz to graduate and pursue her goals as God leads.

Read about more scholarship recipients in past newsletters at www.adventistwomensministries.org

---

NOTE OF APPRECIATION

Linda-Luiselle, a senior from Ivory Coast studying at Valley View University in Ghana, writes:

“With great joy I write to you [for] the Women’s Ministries Scholarship. May God replenish all your losses and expenses. Your support has been a blessing to me since I was contemplating where to find money to pay my fees. God richly bless you in abundance as you continue to support others.”

---

EASIER THAN EVER!

Now it’s easier than ever to help our sisters attend college. Visit the updated Women’s Ministries website www.adventistwomensministries.org and click on Scholarshipping Our Sisters.

SEND YOUR GIFT. IT’S EASY.

---

Gifts of Remembrance

IN MEMORY OF

Inez Gleason
Helen and Allan Hale
Ida May Johnson
Lois Luce
Marie Seard
Ethel Young

---

WHAT YOUR GIFT CAN DO

- $1,000: 1 semester tuition in ARGENTINA
- $1,000: 1 semester tuition in JAMAICA
- $30/month: 1 semester tuition in THAILAND
- $160: 1 month tuition in BANGLADESH
- $1,000: 1 semester tuition in RUSSIA

---

This newsletter is published quarterly by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists Women’s Ministries Department to share news about the women’s scholarship program.

You may contact the Editor by writing: General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists Department of Women’s Ministries 12501 Old Columbia Pike, Silver Spring, MD - 20904 Phone: 301-680-6672 Fax: 301-680-6600 E-mail: womensministries@gc.adventist.org Website: http://adventistwomensministries.org

Editor: Raquel Araúz
Assistant Editor: Carolyn Kujawa
Graphic Designer: Erika Miike
Contributors to this issue: Liz Lechleitner, Mark Ravenell